Day 7 · Claude Projects

Your turning point in the AI era.

02

Study Planner Agent

The brief — what you're building and why

WHAT YOU'LL BUILD

A Claude Project that acts as a personal study coach. It knows your subjects, your exam dates, your available hours, and how you learn — and turns that into a dated plan and a fresh to-do every single day.

- ✓ Remembers your syllabus, dates and constraints across every chat
- ✓ Produces a dated plan from today to your exams
- ✓ Weights harder subjects and front-loads them
- ✓ Adapts each day to what you actually finished

WHY IT MATTERS

A plan you didn't make is a plan you won't follow. Generic advice ignores your real deadlines and habits. Building this teaches you Claude Projects — persistent, configured AI — the foundation for every serious AI workflow, not just studying.

WHERE IT RUNS

Entirely inside Claude, as a Project: a reusable space with its own instructions (system prompt) and knowledge (your files).

WHEN TO BUILD & USE IT

Day 7. Build it at the start of any exam season or learning sprint; use it every morning for the day's plan and every week for review.

HOW TO APPROACH IT

The method — step by step

These are the moves, not the answers. Work through them in order; the worked solution lives in the separate Solution guide.

- 1 Create a dedicated Claude Project so the setup persists across chats.
- 2 Write instructions that give it a role, your subjects, your real exam dates, your daily hours, and how you learn best.
- 3 Add your real material — syllabus, topic lists, past papers, notes — as project knowledge.
- 4 Ask it to produce a dated plan to your exams, then a plan for today.
- 5 Return daily; tell it what you finished and let it re-balance.

REQUIREMENTS

- ✓ A Claude Project (not a plain chat)
- ✓ Real subjects + at least one dated exam
- ✓ At least one knowledge file
- ✓ A plan that spans to the exam date

A LITTLE HINT

Put your weaknesses in the instructions, not just your subjects. "I avoid Physics" makes the coach schedule it first, in small doses.
